

At Devon, Land plays an integral role in the company's overall exploration and development activities. You will begin your training in the Land Department, where you will gain overall industry experience as well as specific land exposure to Freehold leasing, administration, Crown sales and continuations, contract drafting, AFEs and wells. Your skills will be enhanced while rotating through various positions within the Land Department during your first few years at Devon before joining a technical team.

You will be encouraged to participate in industry associations and committees to gain exposure to the oil and gas industry and to build a network of contacts in other companies within industry.

Devon is among the leading independent oil and gas companies in North America with nearly 5,000 employees worldwide. We've been named the best oil and gas company to work for in CalgaryInc Magazine and are ranked among FORTUNE magazine's Most Admired Companies. We are also listed among FORTUNE magazine's "100 Best Companies to Work for.®"

Devon's Canadian Division is head-quartered in Calgary, Alberta, with field offices throughout Western Canada. The opportunities at Devon are diverse and exciting. With exploration and production in a wide-range of geographic areas and in various play types, we require people with many different skill sets, as well as varying experience levels.
